1345	Emerging Technologies - e-Learning 2.0? Is e-Learning 2.0 just another "rhetorical manoeuvre" from suppliers and consultants distancing themselves from the failures of the first wave of e-Learning? Should you be considering it for your learning approach? No doubt, there is the over-hyping of blogs, wikis and podcasting, to name but three web 2.0 phenomena, but at Kineo we believe that there are fundamental changes taking place which will change the way we design and think of e-Learning in the future. We'll take a look at some of the current thinking, and identify five key trends that we believe will shape the e-Learning of the future: • Patterns • Dynamicness and interoperability • Open source • Social networking and tagging • Self-publishing. .	Steve Rayson Kineo

1545	Discussion by Participants This is all about sharing what you've done with new technologies and whether you're about to try something new. You are invited to bring materials along with you to "show and tell". Be prepared to listen and contribute your own experiences. This is a discussion session so please come prepared to contribute your views.	All
